It is the policy of OHB that its staff, volunteers, and Board of Directors uphold the highest legal, ethical and moral standards. Nonprofit board members must meet certain standards of conduct and attention in carrying out responsibilities of the organization.

It is the policy of OHB that no financial conflict of interest, or apparent or potential conflict of interest, exist between any employee, paid consultant, contractor, vendor or governing board member in OHB's operations.

A detailed Code of Conduct and Ethics and Conflicts of Interest Policy has been included in the Restated Bylaws of the Corporation, Articles VI and VII.

It is the practice of OHB to annually disclose the names of any employee, paid consultant or governing board member whom individually or as a part of a business or professional firm was involved in a financial transaction with the agency.

Exceptions as outlined by the Conflict of Interest Policy are reviewed and approved by the governing Board of Directors on a transaction basis.

Code of Conduct and Ethics and Conflicts of Interest Disclosure is presented to the Leadership Team; the Executive Committee; the Board of Directors; and to charity evaluation and rating organizations and individual donors upon request.

ARTICLE VI. CODE OF CONDUCT AND ETHICS

Section 6.1 Board of Directors Responsibilities.

The organization will uphold the highest legal, ethical and moral standards. Nonprofit board members must meet certain standards of conduct and attention in carrying out responsibilities to the organization. These standards include the following:

- a. Duty of Care: The duty of care describes the level of competence that is expected of a board member and is commonly expressed as the duty of "care that an ordinary prudent person would exercise in a like position and under similar circumstances." This means that a board member owes the duty to exercise reasonable care when making a decision as a steward of the organization.
- b. Duty of Loyalty: The duty of loyalty is a standard of faithfulness; a board member must give undivided allegiance when making decisions affecting the organization. This means that a board member can never use information obtained through their role as a board member for personal gain, but must act in the best interests of the organization.
- c. Duty of Obedience: The duty of obedience requires board members to be faithful to the organization's mission; and are not permitted to act in a way that is inconsistent with the central goals of the organization. A basis for this rule lies in the public's trust that the organization will manage donated funds to advance the organization's mission. This duty also requires board members to obey the law and the organization's internal rules and regulations.
